Stories of Resistance from Black Miami

Saturday, February 1, 2-4 p.m. | Members: $5, Non-Members: $15

To kick off Black History Month, HistoryMiami Museum is honored to present a compelling dialogue on Stories of Resistance from Black Miami. Hosted by veteran radio host Tamara Gant, the conversation will feature Commissioner Marleine Bastien, a lifelong advocate for Haitian immigrants and a civil rights campaigns leader; Lonnie Lawrence, a former FBI and Miami-Dade Police Department officer; and Dr. Adora Obi Nweze, president of the Florida State Conference NAACP, educator and civil rights advocate.

Sip of History delves into South Florida’s past and present through moderated conversation with artists, activists and community stakeholders from a variety of disciplines. Hosted by HistoryMiami, each conversation explores a different topic centered on the diverse stories of our local communities. Conversations are paired with a Miami-inspired cocktail created by author, mixologist and Brugal 1888 Brand Specialist Gabriel Urrutia.

Participants must be 21+ to attend.
